Glossary

Sharpe Ratio: It is calculated by dividing the excess return obtained by the fund (with respect to the asset without risk) by the standard deviation of these excesses of profitability. The higher that Sharpe ratio, the better the fund's performance will have shown in the analyzed period. The Sharpe ratio therefore measures the excess return per unit of risk.

Beta: It is a measure of the sensitivity to market movements. The beta of the market is equal to 1.00 by definition. A beta of 1.10 means that the fund or the stock has had, on average, a yield 10% higher than the market when it rose, but 10% worse than the market when it went down. In the same way a beta of 0.85 indicates that the market has behaved 15% worse than the market when it moved up and 15% better than the market when it moved downward.

Alpha: It is the additional performance obtained by a fund with respect to its reference index or benchmark taking into account the exposure of this fund to market risk (measured by the Beta).

Tracking error: Describes the volatility of the difference in profitability between a fund and its benchmark. Therefore, passive management funds will have a small tracking error.

Volatility : It is a measure of the risk of the fund. It indicates how, in average terms, the profitability of the fund has deviated from its average. High volatility means that the fund's performance has experienced strong variations while a low indicates that the fund's performance has been much more stable.

PER: Is a ratio that measures the ratio between the price of an action and its profit per share. A higher PER implies that investors are paying more for each unit of profit.

Turnover Ratio: indicates the percentage of the portfolio that has changed in recent months.

UTA score: Universe of Titles Aptos. The UTA analysis has been developed entirely in the Manager of GVC Gaesco. 23 ratios are analyzed to determine if a company is suitable or not, in the sense of quality and attractiveness. The UTA range goes from 0 to 10.
